Tshokwane River Camp is serene, timeless, and deeply connected to its surroundings. Tents are beneath shady riverine woodland in prime leopard and elephant country. It offers a smaller, private experience within a wildlife-rich concession, away from tourist routes. Every moment here draws you deeper into the landscape — from the crunch of footsteps on a morning walk to the glow of firelight and the exchange of stories beneath the stars. Crafted for the discerning traveller, the camp honours the essence of classic safari: unscripted, unfiltered, and untamed.
